Game Parameters update

- 1.) Update language in the Montana Sports Betting - Game Parameters to address how our system handles football touchdown scorers, with very specific language instead of solely relying on our players knowledge of the football governing league rules.

Clarifying how quarterbacks are and are not awarded touchdowns for certain wagers.

Add language to the 1.6 Football Wager types section, 1.2.18 Player Specials:

Game Parameters1.6 Football Wager types*1.2.18 Player Specials

For the wagers involving "Player Specials" the player predicts if selected players that are part of the active roster of a team, will achieve specific results in specified statistical categories in the form of: a greater or lesser result within a specified limit; or within a specified range; or which player will achieve the highest statistical result (i.e. pass for the most yards) – amongst all or some specifically named Players; or as a yes/no option or as single yes option.

For all player specials, wagers placed on players that were not on the active roster will be refunded. Wagers on players that were on the active roster but were not used (did not play in the game) are considered as non-winning wagers.

"Touchdowns Scorers" are awarded a Touchdown based on the governing body or league rules. The player who catches the ball in the end zone or takes the ball into the end zone receives credit for a touchdown. The player passing the ball that results in a touchdown is not given credit for a score.
