1.5 Baseball

For all baseball games, in contrast to the general sporting rules, the following applies in terms of games postponement: ~~If a baseball game is postponed and not played within the same day of its original schedule in local time, then all selections on this game will be voided (odds = 1.00). If this game is scheduled for a later day, a different event will be offered for wagering purposes.~~ In the case of a postponed match, all markets are considered void unless the match continues within 48 hours of the official start time. In the case of an abandoned match, all undecided markets are considered void unless the match continues within 48 hours of the official start time. All fully decided markets will be settled.
